New Rule Leaves Drivers Surprised
Why did no one tell drivers about this new rule? If you drive less than 35 miles per day, you better read this...

Below is a family biography from the book, The History of Franklin County, Arkansas published by Goodspeed Publishing Company in 1889. These biographies are valuable for genealogy research in discovering missing ancestors or filling in the details of a family tree. Family biographies often include far more information than can be found in a census record or obituary. Details will vary with each biography but will often include the date and place of birth, parent names including mothers' maiden name, name of wife including maiden name, her parents' names, name of children (including spouses if married), former places of residence, occupation details, military service, church and social organization affiliations, and more. There are often ancestry details included that cannot be found in any other type of genealogical record.

Thomas E. Henderson was born in Cass County, Ga., September 7, 1840, and is a son of James and Nancy (Brown) Henderson, natives of the same State. In 1850 the family moved to Sevier County, Ark. After farming four years there they moved to Polk County, where the father died in 1855. The mother died in Franklin County in 1880. Thomas E. grew to maturity in Polk County, on the farm, and during the latter part of 1861 enlisted in the Fourth Arkansas Infantry, Confederate army, under Col. McNair. He served in several minor engagements, and was once taken prisoner, but made his escape in about twenty-four hours. He was discharged for disability about a year after enlisting, and then returned to Polk County, and after his recovery engaged in farming. He was married in that county April 11, 1865, to Miss E. D. Ransom, a native of Alabama, who was reared in Franklin County, and daughter of George Ransom, now deceased, but formerly of Virginia. After his marriage, Mr. Henderson farmed a year in Polk County, and then in January, 1866, located in White Oak Township, Franklin Co. He moved upon his present farm in 1873. This place he has cleared and enlarged, and it is now one of the nicest farms in the neighborhood. He lives in a good one-story residence, has two tenement houses and comfortable out-buildings, and devotes about three acres to fruit raising. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson have three children: Maggie, wife of Prof. H. A. Nickell; James W. and Mary E. Both our subject and wife are members of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, to which all their children belong. Mr. Henderson is an elder in the church and an active worker.

In the first U.S. Census in 1790, Michael Purtle and his sons Jacob and Martin lived in the Ninety-Six District of Greenville County.

After 1797, the first of several Kentucky Acts opened the South of the Green River land to settlers. We do not know how the Purtles of South Carolina learned about this new land. Nevertheless, early in 1797, to take advantage of a grant of one thousand acres in Christian County, Michael Purtle's family sold their property in South Carolina. Along the way, they may have joined a large migration of over one hundred wagons in Washington County, Kentucky, where the Henry Purtle family lived. Also making the move with Michael Purtle was his sons Jacob, Martin, Michael, Jr. and Peter; his daughter Margaret, who had married John Cammack; and Samuel Purtle. Michael Purtle's wife Barbara had died in 1796.

Settlements, however, stopped at the Cumberland River. All the area west of that river belonged to the Chickasaw Indians. Land warrants specified the number of acres on vacant land. Then a person selected the acres he wanted and made an entry in the county with the surveyor, stating the number of acres and the calls of recognizable reference points. Once the survey is in hand, the land office gets the survey and entry. The state governor would then issue a patent or grant. Warrants and surveys were assignable to another party, in full or part, but patents un assignable. No deed was necessary for the family to retain ownership of the land unless the land sold or the heirs disputed an estate settlement. Often, though, there were more certificates issued than land. There is no record of any of the Pirtles involved in a land dispute.

In Perrin's History of Christian County, Kentucky, we read that on May 15, 1798, "A road was ordered from the mouth of the Cumberland River to the Christian Court House in Hopkinsville." Michael Purtle lived on this road in the vicinity of Livingston and Skinframe creeks near the Cumberland River. Perrin's history further states that Michael Purtle surveyed this road part of the way with William Prince, the founder of Princeton, Kentucky. Livingston County was cut off from Christian County in 1798. We know from the Livingston County Order Book 1798-1804 that the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions (so called because they met quarterly) met in Michael Purtle's home before holding court in Centreville. The court had countywide jurisdiction over civil and criminal cases. Caldwell County was cut off from Livingston County with Eddyville as the county seat in 1809.

Therefore, in 1800 the Purtles were in the Livingston County Tax List, and in 1810 they were in the U.S. Census for Caldwell County. Most of the land the Pirtles settled is now in Lyon County. Michael Purtle purchased two lots in 1803 (one was lot No. 11, and the other an unnumbered lot on the south side of Water Street) in Eddyville, which he later sold for a profit. Eddyville at that time was the first post town on the Cumberland River about forty-five miles from the Ohio River, and named for the eddies or whirlpool-like currents of the river at this point.

The 1797 Tax List for Christian County shows Michael Purtle with one black over sixteen years old in his household. However, by 1799 he had four blacks. It is also noteworthy that he became the owner of a Negro woman Kizza, about twenty-nine years old. He had entered into a replevin bond of $315 with Peter Hildreth on January 23, 1810. Hildreth failed to make chattel payment to George Lamb of Eddyville. Therefore, the deed for Kizza became Michael Purtle’s on January 12, 1811. Michael Purtle died on January 7, 1820, leaving a recorded will. In his will is the following: "First: I do will and bequeath to my faithful servant Kizza her freedom after my death, and that she have with her, her bedding, consisting of two quilts, two coverlets, two sheets and two pillows, with bed and bedstead. Also one chest with her wearing apparel and women's saddle, with a little cook-pot, skillet and oven."

Michael Leonhardt Purtle was a frontiersman in the truest sense of the word. He was sixty years old when he led a wagon train from South Carolina to the pristine lands of Kentucky in 1797. His middle name Leonhardt is certainly apropos, as he was hardy as a lion his eighty-three years. Michael Purtle never learned to write his name; copyists transcribed it on documents as he enunciated it for them. He signed with a mark, instead of signing with the usual "X," his mark looked thus: "B.” His father Jacob Birkle had used this same mark on the Mary. Michael Purtle is buried in an undetermined burial ground north of Eddyville in Lyon County.

Michael Purtle, Jr., (married Mary ______) migrated to the Cahaba River valley in the Alabama Territory in 1815 with Jacob Pirtle's son Michael and John Cammack. They inhabited the area that is now Bibb County. Their cousin, Samuel Purtle (married Sarah McCabe in 1796 in Christian County, Kentucky), who is thought to be the Samuel Purtle in the 1820 U.S. Census for Lincoln County, Tennessee, joined them there by the 1830 U.S. Census. The Michael Purtle, Jr., family relocated to Ouachita County, Arkansas, about 1843, but Samuel Purtle's son John Purtle settled in Union Parish, Louisiana. Michael Purtle, Jr., was the father of George Purtle (married Sarah Kerr), Rosanna (married Bryant Bowden), Jesse Purtle (married ______ ______), Thomas Jefferson Purtle (married Mary Ann DeFoor), James Madison Purtle (married Frances B. Ryan) and Malinda (married Henry Allen). Most of the descendants of Michael Purtle, Jr., spell the name Purtle or Purtell.

In 1805, the United States purchased the Kentucky lands that lay between the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers from the Chickasaw Indians. Consequently, when Jacob Pirtle sold his original 200-acre land grant for $1,000 in 1812, he acquired tracts of land situated today in the Land Between the Lakes Recreational Area. In addition, the creation of Lake Barkley in the early 1960s flooded some of the property the Pirtles once owned.

The United States purchased West Tennessee and the remaining Chickasaw lands in Kentucky from the Chickasaw Indians on October 19, 1818. The treaty provided that the Indians had two years to use the area as hunting grounds. In addition, this two-year period permitted time for surveyors to map the area for conveyance to settlers.

Jacob Pirtle resolved to win a choice location in the new, cheap land in West Tennessee, as his family felt that it best to push on and relocate there. The usual pattern of migration seems to have been for one or more members of a family to precede the others by a year or more. Therefore, Jacob Pirtle may have visited the area in 1819. He made mental note of the rich lands along the Big Hatchie River, land for which he would pay from twelve and one-half cents to twenty-five cents per acre. Jacob Pirtle sold all his land in Kentucky by January 15, 1821. This included one hundred acres on the Tennessee River for $140 and two hundred acres on the Cumberland River for $300.

Goodspeed's History of Tennessee does state: "Jacob Pirtle raised a crop of corn near Hatchie Town, in the neighborhood of Thomas McNeal's in 1821." Situated on the banks of the Big Hatchie River, at a point used as a river crossing for the Chickasaw Indians, Hatchie Town became a preferred stopping place for many of the early pioneers.

Jacob Pirtle and most of his family, along with two sons of Martin Pirtle (he had died in 1806 and his wife Margaret, called "Peggy," had died in 1814), completed the relocation to this very inviting land in the Hatchie River valley of West Tennessee by the spring of 1822. The two sons of Martin Pirtle were: James Pirtle (married Charity Roberts), and Martin W. Pirtle (married Martha Jane Duboise). Only Michael Pirtle's son Peter (married Sarah _______) remained in Kentucky. Tradition has it that the Pirtles floated down the Cumberland, Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and up the Big Hatchie River in flatboats. A flatboat is a large, raftlike barge used to haul freight and passengers. A flatboat has a flat bottom and square ends. A keelboat, sometimes called a flatboat, was a long narrow craft, sharp at both ends. These boats were carriers of goods during the westward movement. Pioneers such as Jacob Pirtle could put their furniture and livestock on flatboats and float to their new settlement. Long oars steered the boat as it moved in the current.

Jacob Pirtle acquired two hundred acres on the Hatchie River at the mouth of Gin Creek, about seven miles down stream from Hatchie Town. In steam boating days, the highlands there were Pirtle's bluffs. Jacob Pirtle built his home by a wonderful spring, and the mounds where the chimneys stood were evident at the turn of the century. For years, this was a favored site for picnicking and camping. The Hatchie River was an important thoroughfare for both settlers and commercial purposes, and it was navigable for small steamboats six to nine months a year. At Pirtle's Landing, later the site of Pirtle's Ferry, the width of the channel is one hundred and twenty feet and the depth is twelve feet; the valley is about two miles wide. Jacob Pirtle also owned a tract of land on Short Creek on the south side of the Hatchie River.

By 1823, there were enough residents in the district to petition the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee at Murfreesboro to organize a county. Among the signers of this petition were Jacob Pirtle and his sons: William C., Benjamin W. and Robert Pirtle. Jacob Pirtle served on the Commission that established Hardeman County on October 17, 1823. He was one of ten magistrates appointed by Governor William Carroll to serve as a member of the first Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions held on November 17, 1823, at the house of Capt. Thomas McNeal. Capt. McNeal's home was one-mile northeast of Bolivar at Hatchie Town. The court continued to hold sessions there until November 1825, when it first met at Bolivar in a temporary log house. Two years later a good brick building served as the courthouse for Hardeman County. Federal troops burned this building on May 4, 1864, during the Civil War. Jacob Pirtle served on the court for many years. He also served on the first jury in the county.

Jacob Pirtle died in 1837, leaving a recorded will. His wife Mary, called Polly, had died in Kentucky. Like his father Michael Leonhardt Purtle (1736-1820) and his grandfather Jacob Birkle (1706-ca. 1780) before him, Jacob Pirtle (ca. 1760-1837) was a pacesetting pioneer. Although his grave is unmarked, his burial site is on top of a high hill overlooking the Hatchie River just south of Gin Creek. This cherished land was the same Hardeman County soil on which Jacob Pirtle's son William C. Pirtle (1795-1866) and his son Robert Jackson Pirtle (1828-1901) would live out their lives. Robert Jackson Pirtle's son Joseph Henry Pirtle (1858-1922) and his son Alvin Augustus Pirtle (1879-1960) lived on farms nearby. Alvin Augustus Pirtle's son Robert Sidney Pirtle (1909-1987) made his home in Madison County, Tennessee. [Robert Sidney Pirtle's son James Riley Pirtle (1932-____), the author of this article on the Pirtle ancestry, is the father of John Ross Pirtle (1963-____), the father of Nicholas Ross Pirtle (1989-____). Together this listing depicts eleven generations of Pirtles.]

In December 1833, Jacob Pirtle's fourth son Benjamin W. Pirtle (married Harriet E. Duboise; by 1840 lived in Red River County, Texas), and two daughters -- Priscilla (married Walter Scott) and Mary M. (married Isaac Jones; died in Red River County, Texas, on October 28, 1842) -- migrated to the Arkansas Territory and settled in and around Dallas in present Polk County with James Pirtle (son of Martin Pirtle). Jacob Pirtle's sixth son Isaac Pirtle (married Eunice Cunningham), who was born on June 24, 1809, also moved there by 1836, the year Arkansas achieved statehood, but he later lived in Ouachita County, and then moved on to Lamar County, Texas, where he died on December 25, 1875. The residence of Jacob Pirtle's other two daughters, Sally (married ______ Gibbs) and Rebecca (married ______ Boutt) is unknown. However, four of Jacob Pirtle's sons -- Michael, John B., William C. and Robert -- lived out their lives in Hardeman County, and they and their families have made significant contributions to the county.

Jacob was one of the first County Commissioners for Hardeman and served with Ezekiel Polk, the grandfather of James Knox Polk.

I have some information on Michael B. Pirtle
Born 1735 died 1820 married to Barbara_____ and have listing of their 5 children, including Jacob. Michael listed 1790 census Greensville co. S.C.,96th dist. Michael Jr. born in S.C.in 1771. In 1784 Michael Pirtle owned 400 acres and a grist mill on the Reedy River. Evidently Barbara, Michael's wife died before the family moved from S.C., to Christian Cty., Ky. in 1797

> The settlement of the territory now composing Polk County began about the year 1830, or perhaps a little earlier. Thomas Griffith, from Illinois, settled near the present village of Dallas, and about the same time Jacob Miller settled two miles east of Dallas, where Ben Thompson now resides, and George Wiles settled in the same neighborhood. In December, 1833, James Pirtle from Tennessee settled on the farm where his son, B. [p.439] F. Pirtle, now resides one-half mile north of Dallas. The same year Isaac Pirtle and Ben Pirtle also from Tennessee, made their settlements?the former one mile north of Dallas, and the latter on Mountain Fork, near the camp-meeting ground. Also in the same year Walter Scott and Allen Trousdale, from Tennessee, settled on Board Camp Creek, east of Dallas. The same year Isaac Jones settled the site of Dallas, and a year or two later he sold his improvement to John B. Stewart, who settled thereon.
> About the year 1835 Mr. Cantrell settled in the Miller neighborhood, east of Dallas. Kennison Sulth, from Missouri, located on Six Mile Creek, near the present town of Cove, and Joseph Sulth settled on Mountain Fork, about twelve miles west of Dallas
